

there is a time ...

you are a liar, Mr Monbiot ... it's minus 18 degrees and my pipes have frozen - you liar ... is this your global warming?

it's unfortunate that a great many people hold the UN in high regard - the truth of the matter is they are socialist turds!

the green movement is communist these days, plain and simple temperatures are now noticeably declining

(we are) asking all (our) readers to use as much electricity as possible during Earth Hour to cancel out the efforts of thousands of hippies sitting in the dark the global warming scam is most probably the biggest fraud in history no scientific evidence to date has been presented to prove that CO2 generated by humans will cause catastrophic global warming perhaps throwing a few Greenies per day into an active volcano is worth a try - you know, to calm down the earth god you are a complete idiot; I'm not saying that as an insult, just a plain simple statement of fact the fact that an opinion has been widely held is no evidence whatever that it is not utterly absurd; indeed in view of the silliness of the majority of mankind, a widespread belief is more likely to be foolish than sensible

there is a time to go the distance there is a time to hold on fast a time to speak, abandon silence to nail our courage to the mast we'll need resolve, we'll need conviction to fight the fight and fight it well for we could die and go to heaven or survive and live in hell the whole problem with the world live

is that fools and fanatics are always so certain of themselves in but wiser people are so full of doubts hell